Fine Program Yesterday and Another
Due Today—Collaboration With County Medical Association
Tonight.

County Superintendent of Schools Miss Emma Warren called the teachers' institute of Clatsop county into session for the second day's work, yesterday morning at nine o'clock and State Superintendent of Public Instruction, J. H. Ackerman opened the program with a splendid address on "The Course of Study," in which he laid down the important and accepted principle that the teacher is a follower in his or her work, and not a leader the trend of their work being governed largely by sociological development and expansion, and to illustrate the point showed how the adoption of the various studies were acquired in sequence as the years and their expansion in culture made them necessary. Before 1789 the only two subjects before the scholars were reading and writing; in 1862 geography became a fixed element of text book work, in 1857, history followed; in 1870 drawing; in 1885, physiology, and declared that the next phase of educational work to become essential would be manual training.

Prof. R. L. Robinson, county superintendent of Multnomah then gave an interesting discourse on the study and value of geography and threw some strong and potent light on the part it played in the present strenuous days. He made much of the technical and commercial issues involved in the study and uncovered all its relative values in brief but brilliant talk.

The pupils of McClure school here interjected a fine chorus and won unestimated praise on all sides, to which they responded with an encore.

Mrs. K. E. Sloan, herself the authoress of several text books on reading then submitted a fine paper on "Primary Reading," and incidentally showed and explained several valuable devices to aid in the teaching of primary reading and her entire exposition was genuinely appreciated.

Superintendent Ackerman then took up the further discussion of the history of the elementary studies, and pursued the subject in an engaging way until the noon hour and all it implied stood sponsor for an adjournment.

At one o'clock, the teachers their guests and friends reassembled and the afternoon session was opened by Professor Robinson, in an able and thoroughly appreciated discourse on "Language and Composition."

This was followed by a charming duet by two little people whose names could not be ascertained by the reporter, but which met with a cordial and generous reception.

Mrs. Sloan then gave a clear and methodical talk on "Number Work," which was effective and convincing and thoroughly well received.

Miss Adair then offered a delightful solo which was received with unequivocal pleasure, and at its close, State Superintendent Ackerman resumed and closed his absorbing exposition on the subject of history.

Last evening a delightful reception was tendered the visiting educators and officers by the Astoria teachers, at the home of Mrs. Gearhart, at Eighth and Grand Avenue, at which all the social pleasures incident to such a gathering and such a company were made manifest and were most heartily enjoyed by all concerned.

The program for today's work in the institute is here appended.

CLATSOP POLITICS

County Republican Central Committee Organizes.

REGISTRATION VERSUS VOTES

Current Matters of Interest in the Republican Stronghold—Duties Outlined and Vigorous Campaign to Be Waged for Success.

In accordance with the terms of the Direct Primary law of the state, the members of the County Republican central committee met yesterday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at the county court house, and accomplished the task of organization along the following lines:

W. F. McGregor, chairman of the last central committee, under the old regime took charge of the meeting, and opened the same formally and gave the business proper impetus.

Hon. Harrison Allen was then duly elected as temporary chairman and Allen Y. Anderson was chosen to serve temporarily as secretary, both gentlemen responding promptly to the call for service.

Those present were, John Nemi, Astoria No. 1; Frank Carney, Astoria No. 2; W. J. Barry, Astoria No. 3; C. G. Palmberg, Astoria No. 4; Harrison Allen, Astoria No. 5; A. Y. Anderson, Astoria No. 6; W. F. McGregor, Astoria No. 7; R. J. Abbott, Warrenton precinct, and R. A. Abbott, Clatsop precinct.

Mr. C. G. Palmberg was chosen as treasurer of the central committee and at once assumed his office, with thanks for the honor conferred; and the temporary honors of the chairmanship and secretaryship, were then made permanent in favor of Messrs. Allen and Anderson, respectively.

Under the new primary law, the central committee is permitted to name a managing committee, and this was done yesterday, the following gentlemen being elected thereto: Harrison Allen, Allen Anderson, W. F. McGregor, C. G. Palmberg and R. J. Abbott.

The central committee then decided to issue a call for a meeting on Saturday, May 12, 1906, at a point to be named in the call, and it is expected that all the candidates of the Republican party, the full membership of the central committee and such of the loyal partisans as desire to attend, will be present, to discuss the future business of the campaign.

The committee then proceeded to elect representatives from Clatsop county, on the State central committee and the Congressional committee, naming W. R. Hume to the State committee and John Fox to the Congressional committee. Whereupon the committee indulged in a general discussion of things political, and particularly the Republican interests therein, and decided to establish campaign headquarters and put up a strong clean, vigorous fight for the success of the whole Republican ticket, from top to bottom.

Adjournment was then taken subject to call.

Letters and telegrams and personal messages of all sorts are flying over the state of Oregon from the defeated aspirants for nominative honors to their successful competitors, each and all indicting the absence of all enmity and of the honest hope for the success of the candidates and of the party at the June polls. Even here in the City-by-the-Sea this feeling is abroad in the Republican corner who failed of nomination and in this group James W. Welch is a conspicuous figure among those who are standing squarely in line for a square deal and for final success on the first Monday in June: If there are others who cherish less loyal and less generous views it is an unfortunate thing for the party and more than unfortunate for those who may hold a harsher view, or rather, re-view of the results of the primaries.

There is one accepted rule in political careers, and that is "party loyalty always, whoever may get the nomination or win the election." Anything less than this is of political discredit and reactionary effect upon the man that proclaims it. Clatsop county Republicans are universally bent on the achievement of the party victory at the polls in June and will permit nothing to interfere with that success if good nature, keen watchfulness and a strenuous fight can accomplish it. They fear no opposition beyond the party lines, and anticipate none within them. The glad
